Scales of Survival: Thabazimbi heroes save one of the world's most trafficked animals

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – On 11 February 2026, a rare and highly protected animal — a male Temminck's pangolin — was rescued thanks to the quick thinking of two local community members.

The pangolin was spotted and immediately reported. What followed was a swift and well-coordinated rescue operation. Zimbi Security, Spitskop Rural

Act 10 of 2004 (NEMBA)

• Limpopo Environmental Management Act 7 of 2003, Section 41(1)

Possessing, transporting, selling, or harming a pangolin is a serious criminal offence.

Condition of the rescued pangolin

After Dr Kelsey Skinner did a proper examination of the pangolin, it was determined that it needed some specialised rehabilitation. As per procedure within this region of Limpopo, the pangolin was transferred to the African Pangolin Working Group's Pangolarium, which is a specialised rehabilitation facility. Pangolin rehabilitation is highly specialised and extremely challenging. These shy, nocturnal animals eat only ants and termites, making feeding in captivity very difficult. Stress alone can kill them. Expert veterinary supervision is essential. If he always in a compromised state. They are typically dehydrated, severely underweight, highly stressed, and may suffer from injuries, infections, or organ damage after prolonged captivity.

Specialist treatment follows strict veterinary protocols. The African Pangolin Working Group veterinarian, Dr Kelsey Skinner, who is highly experienced in pangolin care, oversees veterinary treatment and rehabilitation according to internationally recognised standards. Recovery time varies depending on the level of physical and psychological trauma. Some pangolins recover within weeks, while others may require many months — in severe cases, even more than a year. Pangolins are unlike most other mammals. Their unique physiology, specialised diet, and extreme sensitivity to stress make their treatment complex. Each individual responds differently, and rehabilitation plans often need to be adjusted regularly. Every rescued pangolin presents its own challenges.

The ultimate goal: a safe return to the wild

The primary objective is always to release the pangolin back into nature as soon as it is medically cleared and strong enough to survive independently. Release sites are carefully selected and approved by the South African National Biodiversity Institute (SANBI) Scientific Authority for the relevant region. These sites must:

- Fall within the species' natural range
- Be large, secure, and ecologically suitable
- Have adequate food sources (ants and termites)
- Have trained teams available for professional release and monitoring

After release, pangolins are intensively monitored by trained teams to ensure they adapt successfully to their new territory. The data collected helps conservationists better understand and protect this elusive and highly threatened species.

A small animal. A BIG RESPONSIBILITY.

Pangolins are quiet, gentle creatures. When threatened, they curl into a tight ball, trusting their scales to protect them. But scales cannot protect them from greed.

PANGOLIN SAVED

The rescued Temminck's pangolin, photographed shortly after being secured by authorities.

Safety, members of the South African Police Service (SAPS Thabazimbi and Thabazimbi CID), EcoVet veterinarian Dr. Wikus Weideman, conservationist Nelda Kotze, concerned community members and African Pangolin Working Group all worked together to secure the animal safely.

The pangolin was discovered in an urban area — far from its natural habitat — making immediate intervention essential. Pangolins are shy, nocturnal animals that belong in protected wild spaces, not built-up residential environments. It is strongly suspected that this individual may have escaped from captors while being trafficked for the illegal wildlife trade, a devastating industry that continues to threaten the survival of the species.

Why this matters: pangolins are almost gone

Pangolins are not just another wild animal. They are the most trafficked mammal in the world. Across Africa and Asia, pangolins are hunted and illegally traded for their scales and meat. In some cultures, people wrongly believe their scales have medicinal or even aphrodisiac powers. There is no scientific proof that pangolin scales cure illness or increase sexual performance. The scales are made of keratin — the same material as human fingernails. Yet every year, thousands are smuggled out of Africa to supply illegal markets in Asia. The situation is so serious that pangolins are now listed internationally under Appendix I CITES (Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species), which bans commercial international trade.

In South Africa, pangolins are protected under:
 • National Environmental Management: Biodiversity

continues to recover well, the plan is to release him back into a safe, protected natural habitat. Before release, specialists assess:

- His health and weight
- His ability to forage
- Suitable release areas
- Safety from poaching threats

Released pangolins are ALWAYS monitored to ensure they survive and adapt successfully.

WHAT YOU MUST DO IF YOU SEE A PANGOLIN

If you see:

- A live pangolin
- A dead pangolin
- A pangolin shocked by an electric fence
- Pangolin scales
- Anyone trying to sell or transport one

Love at Lightning Speed Wins Valentine's Treat

Platinum Bushvelder | Thabazimbi – Romance took centre stage this February as Platinum Bushvelder and Bosloerie Koffiehuis hosted a "Win a Romantic Valentine's Candlelight Dinner" competition on 30 January 2026.

Couples from Thabazimbi and surrounding areas were invited to share their unique love stories — from milestone anniversaries to magical first meetings. The winning couple received a romantic Valentine's dinner for two, valued at R800 in total, enjoyed on 13 February 2026 at Bosloerie Koffiehuis.

The love story that captured hearts belonged to Chris and Chanene Grietzel. "Our short story goes like this," Chanene shared. "We met in October 2024, got married in October 2025 and here we are. Our lives and love moved at the speed of lightning, but I guess that is what happens when you finally meet your soulmate."

On the evening, the couple enjoyed their candlelight dinner in a warm and intimate setting.

"Thank you Platinum Bushvelder and Bosloerie Koffiehuis for the delicious dinner. We enjoyed it so much and really ate a lot! We didn't even have space for dessert," Chanene said with a laugh.

Melissa Engelbrecht, owner of Bosloerie Koffiehuis, thanked everyone who entered the competition.

Platinum Bushvelder and Bosloerie Koffiehuis also extend their sincere appreciation to every couple who shared their stories. Each entry was heartwarming and a beautiful reminder that love — whether slow and steady or fast as lightning — is always worth celebrating.

TEN YEARS
FOR CATTLE
THIEVES

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – Two men have been sentenced to ten years' direct imprisonment following a stock theft case in Northam. The Thabazimbi Regional Court on Tuesday, 10 February 2026, found Ariel Matsape (43) and Joseph Tshintlo (30) guilty of stealing cattle in the Northam policing area. Both men were declared unfit to possess a firearm in addition to their prison sentences.

According to colonel Malesela Ledwaba, the court heard that during the night of Sunday, 9 June 2024, three men stole nine head of cattle from a farm in Koedoeskop. The cattle were being driven en route to Pylkop in the North West Province. A local resident noticed the herd passing his house under suspicious circumstances and quickly alerted other community members. Residents attempted to apprehend the suspects, who initially managed to evade capture.

Police were summoned, and first responders were soon joined by members of the Stock Theft and Endangered Species Unit (STES). Through coordinated efforts and determined follow-up operations, all three suspects were apprehended later that same day.

The accused made several appearances at the Thabazimbi Magistrates' Court and were later granted bail. However, during trial proceedings — just as judgment was imminent — Joseph Tshintlo absconded. A warrant for his arrest was swiftly issued. Police traced and rearrested him, and he remained in custody until the matter was finalised. Charges against the third suspect were withdrawn before trial commenced.

The case's successful outcome has been largely attributed to the diligent investigative work of warrant officer Amanda Rossouw. Her thorough and persistent efforts ensured that justice was ultimately served.

Ariel Matsape (43) was sentenced to ten years' direct imprisonment for stock theft.

Joseph Tshintlo (30) was re-arrested after absconding during trial and will serve ten years behind bars.

An Angel on Two Wheels

RIDING 7,000 KILOMETRES FOR A CHILD'S CHANCE AT LIFE

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi
 – For Dr. André Hattingh, a motorcycle ride is not merely an adventure — it is a mission of mercy.

As founder of Paediatric Care Africa, Dr. Hattingh has, for years, turned his passion for Harley-Davidson motorcycles into a powerful force for good, raising vital funds for sick and underprivileged children across South Africa.

What began as a simple idea after attending a toy run for children has grown into something extraordinary. Paediatric Care Africa receives no government funding and generates 100% of its own funds. Inspired by that first toy run, Dr. Hattingh envisioned a dedicated motorcycle fundraising initiative – a vision that today stands firmly established as the annual "Ride for a Child." But the roots of this calling go much deeper. In 1994, as a young volunteer doctor and surgeon serving in Rwanda during the devastating genocide between Hutus and Tutsis, Dr. Hattingh worked among thousands of injured children with almost no medical support. Amid unimaginable suffering, he made a promise: one day, he would do something meaningful for sick children. In 2017, that promise became reality with the founding of Paediatric Care Africa — an organisation dedicated to providing free medical care and life-saving surgeries to disadvantaged children in South Africa.

Today, the impact is nothing short of remarkable:

- More than 8,000 people have received free medical treatment.

- 211 children have undergone life-changing surgeries at no cost.
- An astounding 511,000 kilograms of food have been distributed – the equivalent of roughly 2.2 million meals.

Now in its seventh year, the "Ride for a Child" initiative requires months of planning. Preparations for the next tour begin almost as soon as the previous one ends. This year's journey spans 7,000 kilometres over 21 days, with four major mass rides planned across the country.

The 2026 ride focuses on little Caleb, a nine-month-old baby born with Hemimegalencephaly (HME), a rare brain condition causing the left side of his brain to grow abnormally larger than the right. As a result, Caleb suffers around 60 epileptic seizures every single day — seizures that medication cannot control. He urgently requires a hemispherectomy, a specialised operation that will be performed at Mediclinic Groot Constantia.

The fundraising target for this year's ride is R800,000. After the first of four mass rides, Caleb's BackaBuddy campaign has already reached R62,000, with further rides planned in Johannesburg, Pretoria and Cape Town. Yet this journey is not only about raising funds – it is about showing up.

On 16 and 17 February 2026, Dr. Hattingh visited community projects in Thabazimbi. On 16 February, he stopped at Feed the Poor, and on 17 February he visited Spitskop Special Needs School and the Thabang Children's Project. During these visits, sweet and snack packs sponsored by Spar and Pick n Pay were handed out to delighted children – a small gesture carrying a powerful message of care and dignity.

On 18 February 2026, Dr. Hattingh continued his journey to Rustenburg, pressing on despite unpredictable weather and challenging road conditions. Riding a heavy motorcycle through a thunderstorm is no small feat. Yet he continues – driven by the knowledge that every kilometre travelled brings a sick child one step closer to healing.

For Dr. Hattingh, this is more than a charity ride. It is the fulfilment of a 32-year-old promise. He believes children need only two things: a little love and a chance.

As a community, we salute this angel on two wheels and wish Dr. André Hattingh a safe and successful journey as he continues to carry hope, compassion and healing across South Africa – one kilometre at a time.

ROMANS 8:38-39

For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

HAVE YOUR SAY

Do you think breeding of pit bull-type dogs should be banned in South Africa to prevent future attacks?

After a 44-year-old woman in Mitchells Plain, Cape Town, was fatally mauled by her own pit bull-type dogs on 28 January 2026, community concern has intensified. Some support a breeding ban, while others argue responsible ownership is the real issue. What is your view?

"No. These are powerful dogs that require responsible ownership. A ban would fuel illegal breeding. Stricter laws, proper training and accountable breeders are the real solution — not blaming the breed."

Magda Stewart, Thabazimbi

"No. Pit bulls can be dangerous, but banning them isn't the answer. Ownership should require proven knowledge, training and strict regulation to ensure these strong dogs are handled responsibly."

Raymond Mofomme, Thabazimbi

ABSENTEEISM IS QUIETLY COSTING SOUTH AFRICA BILLIONS EACH YEAR... Research by professional services firm PwC has estimated that unplanned employee absence significantly reduces productivity across key sectors. In mining and manufacturing – industries already strained by power cuts and logistical challenges – high absentee rates disrupt operations and increase costs.

Statistics South Africa has also reported persistent workplace health and transport-related challenges that contribute to missed workdays. Economists warn that chronic absenteeism weakens competitiveness, slows growth, and places further pressure on struggling industries – making attendance not just a workplace issue, but a national economic concern.
