A WHOLE COMMUNITY HELD ITS BREATH FOR BABY DUSTIN.

HOPE ARRIVED AT 14:20.

The Baby Everyone Was Waiting For

Just moments after his arrival, baby Dustin Quintin Gilau Jnr began his journey surrounded by love and answered prayers.

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper |

Thabazimbi, Northam – The arrival of a baby is always special, but for the Gilau family, and much of the Thabazimbi and Northam communities, little Dustin Quintin Gilau Jnr's birth became a story of hope, prayer and incredible relief.

Born on Saturday, 13 June 2026 at 14:20, Dustin Jnr made his long-awaited entrance into the world weighing 3.46kg and measuring 54cm in length. His proud parents, Quintin Gilau and Michelle Edwards, could finally hold their son after hours of uncertainty and emotional strain.

At home, three excited siblings – Heino Marais (10), Skylar Rene Gilau (6) and Christopher Tyler Gilau (5) – eagerly awaited the arrival of their new baby brother. The day began before sunrise when Michelle started experiencing contractions shortly before 06:00. With her pregnancy classified as high-risk, concern quickly turned into urgency when her water broke shortly thereafter. As the family waited for assistance, Quintin turned to local community groups for advice and support.

What followed was remarkable. Residents from across Thabazimbi and Northam rallied around the family, offering guidance, encouragement and prayers as they followed the unfolding story.

With contractions becoming stronger and help still on the way, Quintin found himself preparing for a situation few parents ever imagine – the possibility of having to deliver his own baby at home. Despite the mounting pressure, he remained focused on keeping Michelle and their unborn son safe.

Fortunately, emergency services arrived in time and Michelle was safely transported to hospital. Members of Thaba Fire and Rescue supported the family throughout the long night and early morning hours, helping them navigate a tense and emotional wait. But even after Dustin's safe arrival, the family's ordeal was not yet over.

Shortly after giving birth, Michelle suffered severe bleeding and had to be rushed into theatre. At the same time, newborn Dustin initially struggled to breathe. For a period, the family faced some of the most frightening moments of their lives.

"It was stress upon stress," Quintin recalled. "With the high-risk pregnancy we were incredibly worried. There were so many emotions throughout the labour process, and the tension afterwards was unbelievable. But we feel incredibly relieved and truly blessed."

By approximately 16:30, both mother and baby had stabilised, allowing the family to finally breathe a collective sigh of relief.

Michelle and little Dustin were discharged from hospital the following day and returned home to a joyful family eager to welcome their newest member.

For the Gilau family, 13 June will forever be remembered as a day that tested their courage, faith and resilience. Yet it will also be remembered as the day an entire community stood alongside them – proving that in times of uncertainty, kindness, prayer and support can make all the difference.

What began as a day filled with worry ended with a precious new life, grateful hearts and a community celebrating together the safe arrival of little Dustin Quintin Gilau Jnr.

Baby Dustin Quintin Gilau Jnr is welcomed by his loving family — proud parents Michelle Edwards and Quintin Gilau, together with siblings Skylar Rene Gilau and Christopher Tyler Gilau.

Looting spree leaves trail of destruction in Thabazimbi

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – A night of chaos and destruction unfolded in parts of Thabazimbi when several tuckshops owned by foreign nationals were looted during an overnight outbreak of public violence.

According to Limpopo police, the incidents occurred between 21:00 on Wednesday, 3 June, and 02:00 on Thursday, 4 June, in Regorogile Extension 6 and the Matikiring Informal Settlement.

Police responded to reports that groups of community members were targeting foreign-owned businesses. Upon arrival, officers were allegedly met with hostility and pelted with stones while attempting to restore order. Rubber bullets were used to disperse the crowds.

In total, six tuckshops in the Matikiring Informal Settlement were looted. The estimated value of stolen groceries and damage to property is approximately R394,000. The unrest also left its mark on law enforcement, with three police vehicles damaged by stones. No police officers were injured during the operation. Following investigations, police arrested three suspects aged between 19 and 23. Officers also recovered a 32-inch television and three packets of ice pops believed to have been stolen during the looting.

The suspects appeared in the Thabazimbi Magistrates' Court on Monday, 8 June, facing charges of public violence.

Limpopo provincial commissioner lieutenant general Thembi Hadebe condemned the incidents and warned that police would act decisively against anyone involved in violence, intimidation or the destruction of property. Investigations continue.

What happened to our squash court?

[Letter to the Editor]

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Northam – The condition of the local squash court and surrounding infrastructure is deeply disappointing. The facility was reportedly refurbished in 2022, using public funds, yet today it appears neglected and is allegedly being used for storage rather than for the recreational purpose it was intended to serve. Community facilities such as these should be maintained and protected so that residents can continue to benefit from them.

However, the responsibility does not rest solely with the municipality. Too often, public infrastructure becomes the victim of vandalism, theft and misuse. Ratepayers ultimately carry the cost when facilities are damaged, stripped or neglected, only for repairs and upgrades to be funded again a few years later.

Perhaps it is time for all stakeholders to ask a simple question: How do we ensure that community assets remain community assets for generations to come?

Yours sincerely,
Concerned Resident

The squash court and surrounding infrastructure, reportedly refurbished in 2022, now show visible signs of neglect while the facility appears to be used for storage rather than community recreation.

Municipality Calls for Calm After Spaza Shop Incident

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – Following reports that a young boy was hospitalised after allegedly consuming a snack purchased from a spaza shop in Regorogile, Extension 6, tensions in parts of the community escalated, leading to incidents of violence and looting.

According to a statement published by Thabazimbi Local Municipality (TLM) on its Facebook page on 4 June 2026, ward councillors from Wards 9, 10 and 12, accompanied by two traffic officers, met with foreign-owned spaza shop owners following the incidents.

The municipality stated that during the engagement, Ward 9 councillor Tumisang Pilane requested affected shop owners not to reopen their businesses immediately. According to TLM, a programme involving the Health Inspectorate was scheduled to take place, with only shops that comply with all applicable requirements and receive clearance being permitted to reopen. The municipality further stated that the South African Police Service (SAPS) is continuing its investigation into the incidents and will monitor the situation to maintain law and order.

According to the statement, community members were urged not to resort to violence, intimidation or unlawful actions, regardless of the circumstances. Mayor Andries Tshukudu reportedly echoed these sentiments, assuring shop owners of the municipality's support and encouraging them not to become discouraged during the challenging period.

The municipality also requested shop owners to cooperate fully with Health Inspectors during the inspection process and encouraged all stakeholders to work together constructively to address concerns and promote peaceful coexistence within local communities.

Creating lasting value

Sustainability partnerships delivering real benefits for communities and business

On Thursday 11 June 2026, Valterra Platinum hosted its first Sustainability Day, outlining how the business is delivering on its Sustainability strategy which focuses on three pillars: climate and environment, building resilient communities and ethical value chains.

Valterra Platinum's first Sustainability Day brought together employees, partners, industry leaders and other stakeholders to explore how the company creates and protects value, while showcasing initiatives that support this goal and contribute to long-term business success. The event highlighted that, from climate change and resource constraints to evolving stakeholder expectations, regulatory pressures and shifting global supply chains, the definition of value is changing. Sustainability is no longer a separate, feel-good initiative; it has become a core driver of resilience, competitiveness and long-term success.

Addressing delegates, Valterra Platinum CEO Craig Miller said sustainability is not a parallel journey to business performance, but an integral part of it. "Sustainability and business performance are converging. Here at Valterra Platinum, sustainability anchors our strategy and runs through everything we do," he said.

The exhibition demonstrated how collaboration and innovation are creating and protecting value for communities, partners and future generations.

Valterra Platinum's Supply Chain Sustainability programme promotes responsible sourcing, inclusive procurement and supplier development, helping create opportunities for local businesses while building stronger, more sustainable communities.

■ Pillar 3: Ethical value chains

Building stronger communities through responsible procurement

Valterra Platinum's Supply Chain Sustainability programme demonstrates how responsible business practices can create positive impacts far beyond the mine gate. By focusing on inclusive procurement, responsible sourcing and reducing value-chain emissions, the company is working to build a more resilient and sustainable future for its host communities.

Supply Chain Sustainability is a key pillar of Valterra Platinum's commitment to building ethical value chains and creating lasting value for the communities surrounding its operations. Through its inclusive procurement strategy, the company prioritises opportunities for local suppliers, helping small and emerging businesses grow, create jobs and strengthen local economies. In 2025 alone, Valterra Platinum spent approximately R7 billion with host community suppliers, supporting economic participation and enterprise development across its mining regions. The programme also promotes responsible sourcing, ensuring suppliers uphold ethical, environmental and social standards throughout the value chain.

By combining sustainable procurement with responsible business practices, Supply Chain Sustainability contributes to community development, economic inclusion and long-term sustainability, while supporting Valterra Platinum's purpose of unearthing value to better our world.

■ Pillar 1: Climate and Environment

Clean energy for today, sustainability for tomorrow

In March this year, Valterra Platinum welcomed the commercial operation of the 240 MW Mooi Plaats Solar PV project and the 140 MW Umsobomvu Wind project in South Africa's Northern Cape and Eastern Cape respectively. Both projects form part of Envusa Energy's Koruson 2 (K2) project, a joint venture between Anglo American and Électricité de France Renewables (EDF Renewables) Power Solutions.

The projects are expected to supply approximately 30% of Valterra Platinum's electricity demand, reducing an estimated one million tonnes of carbon emissions annually and advancing the company's 2030 emissions-reduction target. Bringing the Mooi Plaats and Umsobomvu projects online delivers significant benefits for Valterra Platinum by enhancing energy security, reducing exposure to Eskom tariff volatility and accelerating progress towards the company's climate commitments. With grid electricity currently accounting for approximately 87% of the company's total emissions, the renewable energy supply will play a critical role in achieving Valterra Platinum's Scope 1 and 2 target of a 30% absolute emissions reduction by 2030, measured against a 2016 baseline.

These initiatives form part of Valterra Platinum's broader decarbonisation strategy, helping to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, strengthen energy security and support the company's ambition of achieving carbon neutrality by 2040. Envusa Energy and Valterra Platinum are demonstrating how business can support a just energy transition while creating sustainable opportunities and shared value for future generations.

The Umsobomvu Wind Farm is one of several large-scale renewable energy projects helping drive South Africa's energy transition.

Kioni empowers women through jewellery design and entrepreneurship, creating pathways to income generation and economic independence in mining communities.

■ Pillar 2: Resilient communities

Kioni: crafting opportunity through African creativity

Kioni is a female-owned social enterprise dedicated to transforming traditional African craftsmanship into meaningful economic opportunities for women. Founded in 2018 by Erika Tempel, the business provides training, mentorship and market access to rural women, enabling them to design, manufacture and sell authentic, high-end African jewellery and related products.

At the heart of Kioni's work is a simple but powerful purpose: turning craftsmanship into opportunity. Through beading and jewellery-making, women gain practical skills, steady income, confidence and creative independence. The initiative helps participants build sustainable livelihoods while preserving and celebrating African artistry.

Recognising Kioni's potential to create lasting community impact, Valterra Platinum provided funding in 2024 to expand the programme and increase commercial opportunities for women in its host communities. The partnership is helping more women access entrepreneurship opportunities, improve their earning potential and contribute to local economic development. By investing in people, skills and creativity, Kioni demonstrates how sustainable development can be both empowering and beautifully crafted.

Contractor support: building businesses beyond mining

Valterra Platinum's Contractor Support Programme is helping community-based businesses build a stronger future by reducing their dependence on mining contracts and creating opportunities for long-term growth.

Valterra Platinum's Contractor Support Programme helps local businesses build resilience and diversify beyond mining-related work.

Many small businesses in mining communities rely heavily on mine-related work, making them vulnerable when contracts end or demand declines. Through its Contractor Support Programme, Valterra Platinum is working to change this by helping local entrepreneurs become more resilient, sustainable and competitive.

The programme identifies promising small and medium enterprises (SMEs) and provides structured support tailored to their specific needs. This includes strengthening business systems, improving financial management, developing new markets and creating pathways for growth beyond the mining sector. By helping businesses diversify their income streams and build stronger foundations, the initiative supports job retention and creates opportunities for future employment.

The programme forms part of Valterra Platinum's broader sustainability strategy, which focuses on building resilient local communities and ensuring that economic benefits continue long after mining activities have ended. Through initiatives such as these, the company is investing in stronger local economies and sustainable community development.

■ Pillar 2: Resilient communities

Simplie Honey: sweet success through sustainable beekeeping

By turning beekeeping into an opportunity for growth, Simplie Honey is helping communities build skills, generate income and protect the environment – one hive at a time.

Simplie Honey, producing international award-winning honey, partners with Valterra Platinum to support community-based beekeeping initiatives linked to operations such as Amandelbult and Precious Metals Refinery (PMR). The project combines environmental stewardship with economic empowerment by providing training, mentorship and practical beekeeping skills to community members.

Through honey production and hive management, participants are able to develop sustainable livelihood opportunities while contributing to biodiversity conservation. Bees play a vital role in pollinating crops and indigenous plants, helping to maintain healthy ecosystems and support food security.

The project has already achieved international recognition, with honey from the Amandelbult Community Beekeeping Project receiving a first-place award at a prestigious international honey competition in 2024. This achievement highlights the quality of the honey produced and the success of community-driven sustainability initiatives. Through partnerships such as this, Valterra Platinum continues to create lasting value beyond mining by supporting resilient communities and a healthier environment.

■ Pillar 2: Resilient communities

Thobo, sharing in success

Employee share ownership is a powerful way to create long-term value and promote financial wellbeing. The Thobo Employee Share Ownership Plan (ESOP) is Valterra Platinum's flagship share ownership scheme for over 18,000 employees.

Established to provide beneficiaries with a meaningful ownership stake in the company, the scheme enables beneficiaries to benefit directly from the value they help create through their daily work. Named after the Setswana word Thobo, meaning "harvest", the scheme reflects the principle of sharing the rewards of collective effort. Through annual share allocations, evergreen dividend participation and ongoing employee engagement, the ESOP promotes financial inclusion, long-term wealth creation and economic participation.

Beyond financial benefits, the scheme supports Valterra Platinum's broader sustainability objectives by helping employees and their families build greater financial resilience. By creating opportunities for employees to share in the company's success, the Thobo ESOP contributes to stronger households, more resilient communities and a more inclusive mining industry.

The Thobo Employee Share Ownership Plan (ESOP) enables qualifying Valterra Platinum employees to share in the company's success through share ownership, building long-term financial resilience for employees and their families.

■ Pillar 2: Resilient communities

Project Alchemy: investing in communities beyond mining

The Alchemy Equity Scheme is a long-term sustainability initiative designed to create lasting social and economic value in our host communities and the workforce origin regions (labour-sending areas), by leveraging the 1,400,685 unencumbered shares owned in Valterra Platinum.

Through a network of development trusts and a non-profit company, the scheme invests in education, digital connectivity, healthcare, infrastructure, entrepreneurship, food security and skills development. Since its establishment in 2011, hundreds of millions of rand have been invested in projects that aim to build resilient, self-sustaining communities long after mining activities have ended.

At the heart of Valterra Platinum's long-term community sustainability vision lies the Alchemy Community Empowerment Scheme, enabled by the shareholding trust, Lefa La Rona. The scheme supports five development entities, each serving different communities connected to the company's operations and workforce regions. Dikuno Tsa Sechaba Trust continues to make meaningful investments in digital inclusion, healthcare, and education, among other initiatives. Ditholwana Ts'a Rena Trust supports early childhood development, water, sanitation and agriculture in Mogalakwena communities. Bohwa Bja Rena Trust invests in social infrastructure to improve access to essential public services around Twickenham. The Rustenburg Community Development Trust promotes entrepreneurship, skills development and township industrialisation, while Zenzele Itereleng NPC supports social welfare initiatives and develops commercially viable enterprises through access to finance, technical support and market linkages across the Eastern Cape, Lesotho, Mozambique and Taung.

Together, these initiatives demonstrate Valterra Platinum's commitment to creating sustainable livelihoods, improving quality of life and building stronger communities.

Growing opportunity from the ground up

From a community farming initiative to a thriving commercial enterprise, Maponya Agricultural Projects Trust is helping grow jobs, food security and economic opportunity near Polokwane through agriculture and strategic partnerships.

Located approximately 20km south of Polokwane, adjacent to Valterra Platinum's Polokwane Smelter, Maponya Agricultural Projects Trust has developed into a successful black-owned farming enterprise under the leadership of Jonas Maponya. The farm spans around 800 hectares, including irrigated, dryland and grazing areas, and produces potatoes as its primary crop, alongside tomatoes, chillies, peppers, sugar beans and seasonal vegetables. Valterra Platinum has played an important role in the farm's growth through a R1.9 million investment in mechanised farming equipment, including a tractor, trailer, planter, fertiliser spreader, disc harrow and such. This support has helped improve productivity, strengthen distribution channels and create access to broader markets.

Today, the farm harvests approximately 150 tonnes of potatoes annually and provides employment opportunities for permanent and seasonal workers, demonstrating how partnerships between industry and local agriculture can drive sustainable livelihoods and long-term community development.

Maponya Agricultural Projects Trust has grown into a successful commercial farming enterprise, creating jobs, strengthening local food security and supplying agricultural produce through the support of strategic partners such as Valterra Platinum.

■ Pillar 1: Climate and Environment

Water that changes lives

Reliable access to water is essential for healthy communities, sustainable livelihoods and economic growth. Through partnerships with municipalities, government departments and community stakeholders, the company has contributed to projects that strengthen access to reliable water supply.

These initiatives have included support for bulk water pipelines, borehole development, water reticulation upgrades and other infrastructure designed to improve the delivery of potable water to households. In our operating areas, partnerships helped advance several water infrastructure projects, while borehole and pipeline upgrades have assisted municipalities in augmenting local water supply systems benefiting more than 100,000 people. At a regional level, Valterra Platinum is also involved in the roll out of the Olifants River Resources Development Project, a bulk water infrastructure programme that aims to improve long-term water resilience for communities and industry alike.

By investing in sustainable water solutions, Valterra Platinum helps create lasting benefits that extend beyond the mine gate and contribute to healthier, more resilient communities.

■ Pillar 1: Climate and Environment

Biodiversity: protecting nature for future generations

Healthy ecosystems are essential for thriving communities, sustainable livelihoods and a resilient environment. Through its biodiversity and rehabilitation programmes, Valterra Platinum is committed to ensuring that mining activities contribute to a positive and lasting environmental legacy.

Valterra Platinum's biodiversity programme demonstrates how responsible mining and environmental stewardship can be integrated across the full mining lifecycle. Across its operations, the company focuses on avoiding and minimising impacts, rehabilitating disturbed land, protecting threatened plant species and restoring ecosystems during operations and post closure.

At its Mototolo operation, conservation teams manage onsite nurseries with more than 4,000 propagated and transplanted seedlings, while specialised programmes safeguard protected species such as Bushveld Saffron, Sekhukhune Bushman's Tea and Red Ivory trees. The company also supports invasive species control, wetland rehabilitation and ecological restoration projects in the Limpopo and North West provinces.

Beyond operational boundaries, Valterra partners with conservation authorities, landowners, and host communities to promote biodiversity stewardship, awareness, and environmental sustainability. These efforts help preserve natural resources, support ecosystem health, and create a foundation for sustainable land use long after mining has ended.

Biodiversity management is a core component of Valterra Platinum's commitment to responsible mining. By embedding robust biodiversity practices into planning, operations and closure, the company aims to deliver measurable environmental outcomes, strengthen ecosystem resilience and create enduring value for host communities.

Valterra Platinum's biodiversity and rehabilitation initiatives focus on protecting indigenous species, restoring ecosystems and promoting sustainable land use for future generations.

Sustainability is not compliance; it is our pathway to long-term value.

ROOIKUILSPRUIT GETS A FRESH START!

Municipal teams and equipment tackled accumulated vegetation and waste during the Rooikuispruit clean-up campaign.

Working together for a cleaner Thabazimbi: From left are councillor Estie Fourie (Ward 2), Jan Mogotsi from the Community Services Department, and Joshua Namate, director of Community Services at Thabazimbi Local Municipality.

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – Shovels, machinery and community spirit came together on Tuesday 9 June 2026 as the long-awaited clean-up of the Rooikuispruit River Channel marked a fresh start for one of Thabazimbi's most important natural assets. The initiative, organised by Thabazimbi Local Municipality as part of the commemoration of International Biodiversity Day, focused on removing accumulated waste, clearing overgrown vegetation and improving the overall condition of the river channel. The clean-up formed part of a broader effort to promote environmental awareness, biodiversity protection, cleaner water resources, community participation and sustainable environmental practices. Residents, schools, churches, businesses, mines, NGOs and community organisations were invited to take part in the campaign.

According to DA Ward 2 councillor Estie Fourie, the clean-up marked a significant milestone after years of concerns about the deteriorating state of the spruit. "For many years, residents had to live with the consequences of neglect, including overgrown vegetation, accumulated waste and the deterioration of this important watercourse," said Fourie. Fourie added that she would continue monitoring the project and advocating for ongoing maintenance to ensure that the improvements are sustained in the future. The municipality described the initiative as a practical demonstration of shared responsibility towards environmental sustainability. By working together, participants helped improve the condition of the Rooikuispruit while contributing to the protection of local biodiversity and water resources.

Are you still using the green ID book?

South Africa's green barcoded ID book is gradually being phased out and replaced by the Smart ID Card. Although the green ID remains valid for now, millions of South Africans still use it daily. Are you one of them, or have you already made the switch?

"No, I switched to the Smart ID Card some time ago. It is now widely accepted by banks, employers and government departments. My old green ID book was wearing out, and the card is far more convenient to carry."

"I upgraded to the Smart ID Card a few years ago. While I still have my green ID book, the card is more durable, convenient and secure. The book can easily become damaged over time, making the card the better option for everyday use."

PENGUINS KNOW THEIR FAMILY BY SOUND... Imagine trying to find your child in a crowd of thousands. Penguins do exactly that! In large colonies that can contain thousands of birds, parent penguins and their chicks recognise one another through unique vocal calls.

Scientists have discovered that each penguin's call is slightly different, allowing family members to identify each other even in a noisy colony. This remarkable ability helps parents return to the correct chick after spending days at sea searching for food. It's nature's version of a voice print – and it works surprisingly well.

Valterra Platinum warns suppliers of procurement scam

Valterra Platinum has become aware of a procurement scam targeting suppliers, service providers and business partners through the misuse of the company's name, employee identities and falsified documentation.

The scam involves individuals impersonating Valterra Platinum representatives and distributing fraudulent documents, including fake identity documents, banking correspondence and other supporting paperwork, to scam unsuspecting recipients.

Valterra Platinum confirms that these communications and documents are fraudulent and do not originate from the company. They attempt to solicit supplier engagement through fake purchase orders, requests for information and other communications that falsely claim to represent Valterra Platinum. We urge all suppliers and contractors to be aware, exercise caution and verify any unusual requests through official company channels before taking any action.

Valterra Platinum will never:

- Ask for payment to participate in a tender process
- Request product samples outside of a formal procurement process
- Send tender requests via WhatsApp, SMS or other informal messaging platforms
- Communicate through unofficial channels
- Request goods to be delivered to premises that are not approved company locations
- Communicate unofficial changes to scope, delivery requirements or pricing

Valterra Platinum will always:

- Use official company systems, including SAP Ariba and associated company platforms
- Communicate through verified email addresses ending in @valterraplatinum.com
- Direct suppliers to official procurement information and resources
- Follow established procurement governance and purchase order processes
- Maintain formal, transparent and documented supplier engagement procedures

Valterra Platinum takes this matter seriously and is working to address the issue through the appropriate channels. Should you receive unexpected purchase orders, payment requests or communications that appear unusual or suspicious, please verify them directly with the company before responding or taking any action.

If in doubt, contact your usual Valterra Platinum representative, visit the supplier section of the Valterra Platinum website, or report suspicious behaviour via the YourVoice Integrity Line on 010 500 4106, or at <https://valterraplatinum.integrityline.com/>.

Your vigilance helps protect the integrity of our supply chain and safeguard our partnerships.

RHINOS CHARGE FORWARD

Rhinos captain Attie Louw leads from the front as Northam continues its impressive run of form.

Northam Rhinos flyhalf Johnny Welthagen (no. 10) helped steer his side to a commanding victory over Alberton Rugby Club.

L.v.d Westhuizen fotografie

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Northam – The Northam Rhinos Rugby Club delivered a memorable day of rugby on Saturday, 13 June 2026, when all three of their senior teams secured convincing victories against Alberton Rugby Club at Bushveld Park, Setaria. Competing in the Gauteng Golden Lions Grand Challenge, the Rhinos showcased their depth, determination and attacking flair, delighting supporters who turned out to back their local teams. The Rhinos' 1st Team led the charge with an impressive 50-24 victory, demonstrating clinical finishing and disciplined teamwork throughout the match. The 2nd Team followed suit with a strong 45-24 win, while the 3rd Team produced the most dominant performance of the day, running in an emphatic 61-7 victory. The clean sweep highlights the growing strength of rugby in Northam and reflects the hard work being put in by players, coaches and club management both on and off the field. With confidence running high, the Rhinos now turn their attention to another exciting home fixture. On Friday evening, 19 June, they will host Siyanda Wildebeeste at Bushveld Park, Setaria, in the Waterberg League. The 2nd Team will kick off at 19:00, followed by the eagerly anticipated 1st Team clash at 20:20.
