Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Tom Burke

Four suspected rhino poachers were arrested on Sunday, 5 July 2026, following a coordinated operation by Bosveld Misdaad en Ondersoek, Bosveld Plaasbeveiliging Sekuriteitsmaatskappy and the South African Police Service (SAPS).

The arrests followed information that the suspects were allegedly on their way to poach rhinos in the Tom Burke area. Acting swiftly on the intelligence, Bosveld Misdaad en Ondersoek joined forces with Bosveld Plaasbeveiliging Sekuriteitsmaatskappy, which operates in the Rooiberg, Baltimore, Tom Burke and Swartwater areas, as well as members of SAPS Tom Burke.

A planned roadblock operation was set up on the road between Boschdraai and Speculatie, where the suspects' vehicle was intercepted. Four suspects were arrested – one a Mozambican national and three South African citizens.

Police confiscated a Volkswagen Polo, a .375 rifle fitted with a suppressor, ammunition, an axe, a knife, foil, gloves and several cellphones. The suspects and all seized items were handed over to SAPS Tom Burke, while the Endangered Species Unit was notified to continue the investigation.

The four suspects appeared in the Lephalale Magistrate's Court on Tuesday 7 July 2026. The matter was postponed to 16 July for bail applications.

Rhino poaching remains one of the greatest threats to the Bushveld's natural heritage. Beyond the devastating loss of these iconic animals, wildlife plays a vital role in the local economy. Tourists from across South Africa and around the world visit the Waterberg regions specifically to experience their rich biodiversity, supporting game reserves, lodges, restaurants, guides and countless local businesses. Every rhino saved helps protect not only an endangered species, but also the livelihoods that depend on wildlife tourism.

4,000 Learners Inspired to Dream Bigger

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – Thousands of learners explored exciting career opportunities when the Bushveld GM Alliance Forum hosted its inaugural Career Expo, bringing education, industry and government together to help shape the region’s future workforce. Approximately 4,000 Grade 9 to Grade 12 learners from the Thabazimbi and Dwaalboom circuits attended the Bushveld GM Alliance Forum Career Expo from 22 to 25 June 2026. The four-day event united leading mining companies, government departments, higher education institutions and businesses, giving learners practical career guidance, information on bursaries and study opportunities, and direct access to industry professionals. The Bushveld GM Alliance Forum launched the initiative to help young people make informed decisions about their futures while strengthening education and skills development in local communities. Valterra Platinum’s Amandelbult operation attracted large numbers of learners to its interactive exhibition stand, where they experienced virtual reality technology, engaged with company representatives and learned more about careers in mining and the company’s values. Throughout the expo, learners attended motivational talks, explored career options and interacted with professionals from a wide range of industries, leaving with valuable knowledge and greater confidence about the opportunities available after school. Following the overwhelming success of the event, organisers confirmed that the Bushveld GM Alliance Forum Career Expo will become an annual initiative.

Rising electricity tariffs make energy planning more important than ever

Platinum Publishers | SA – The 9.01% municipal electricity tariff increase taking effect on 1 July 2026 will place further pressure on South African businesses at a time when operating costs are already under strain. While the percentage increase may appear relatively modest in isolation, the bottom-line impact is significant when applied to large energy users. David MacDonald, CEO at SolarAfrica, commented: “SolarAfrica’s modelling shows that a typical C&I business consuming around 1,000,000 kWh per month could see annual electricity costs rise by between R2.88 million and R3.34 million over the next year, depending on operating profile. More concerning is that these increases are becoming a recurring feature of the energy landscape rather than a once-off event.

With a further 8.83% increase already proposed for next year, businesses are facing a future where electricity costs continue to escalate faster than many other input costs. This makes long-term planning increasingly difficult, particularly for energy-intensive sectors such as manufacturing, mining, agriculture and logistics. A few years ago, businesses were primarily focused on keeping the lights on during loadshedding. Today, the challenge increasingly involves managing cost volatility and maintaining competitiveness amid rising electricity prices. By combining solutions such as on-site solar, battery storage, wheeling and energy trading, companies can build a more diversified energy mix that not only improves resilience but also provides greater cost certainty over the long term.”

But do you have to pay if you have solar?

After some digging, it seems that South Africans do not pay a national “solar tax” simply for installing solar panels. However, if your home or business remains connected to the municipal or Eskom electricity grid, your solar system generally needs to be registered and approved. Depending on your municipality, you may also be required to pay application, metering or fixed network charges. These fees are not for generating your own electricity, but for remaining connected to the grid, which provides backup power and allows electricity to flow safely. Requirements vary between municipalities, with cities such as Johannesburg requiring grid-tied solar installations to be registered before they can legally operate. Critics argue these costs could discourage investment in renewable energy, while municipalities maintain the charges are necessary to fund the electricity infrastructure that solar users still rely on when the sun isn’t shining. Only time will tell how this plays out. Hopefully, the outcome will benefit consumers.

Did you know?

REFEREES DIDN'T ALWAYS HAVE CARDS! Yellow and red cards only made their World Cup debut in 1970. Before then, referees simply warned or sent players off verbally, often causing confusion because of language barriers. The colour-card system was inspired by traffic lights – yellow means “caution”, red means “stop”. Today, it’s one of football’s most recognised symbols.
