FARMING FROM THE SKY

PRECISION FROM ABOVE... An agricultural drone takes to the sky above a centre pivot and surrounding farmland – a glimpse of how modern technology is finding its place alongside traditional farming methods.

FARMING AT YOUR FINGERTIPS... A typical operator screen provides a bird's-eye view of the field, together with mapping, flight and application options used to plan and monitor the job.

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – Across the farming landscape of Thabazimbi and surrounds, where producers contend with vast fields, grazing land, difficult terrain and unpredictable weather, a new tool is increasingly taking to the skies: the agricultural spray drone.

According to Peet Oosthuizen of Alpha Drone, drones are not intended to replace tractors, high-clearance sprayers, aircraft or centre pivots. Instead, they offer farmers another specialised tool – particularly where precision and accessibility matter.

When an operator arrives on a farm, the field is mapped and stored digitally. Using GPS, the drone follows a predetermined route, while the operator can select specific areas requiring treatment. This means a problem area can be targeted without necessarily treating an entire field.

Where tractors struggle, drones can fly

The advantage becomes particularly clear after rain. When soil is too wet for heavy machinery, a drone does not need to travel across the land and, where weather and product conditions permit, treatment can continue from above. Drones can also work on slopes and in difficult-to-reach areas. They are used in maize, wheat, sunflower and cotton fields, pecan orchards and grazing.

Depending on the equipment, drones can apply pesticides, fungicides, nutrients and liquid fertilisers, while spreading systems can distribute granular fertiliser and seed.

Precision is central to the technology. GPS, sensors and radar help control the drone's route and height, while the airflow from its rotors can assist in carrying spray droplets into the crop canopy.

The operator's job also involves ensuring the correct concentration and application settings are used, making appropriate certification, including the necessary PCO requirements, and product knowledge important. Weather remains crucial, with wind and temperature influencing spraying and the effectiveness of certain products.

More than just flying

After spraying, the system can retain valuable information including area covered, product applied per hectare, spraying time and temperature, with maps stored for future reference. Oosthuizen says the technology is not only for large commercial farms. Smaller crop and livestock farmers may also benefit where targeted treatment makes practical and financial sense.

For more information, contact Peet Oosthuizen of Alpha Drone on 079 608 0310.

’n Bekende gesig, ’n blywende nalatenskap

Platinum Bushvelder koerant | Thabazimbi – Hoërskool Frikkie Meyer (HFM) en die breër Thabazimbi-gemeenskap treur oor die afsterwe van mnr. Ben Liebenberg, ’n geliefde en bekende figuur wat oor baie jare diep spore in die dorp gelaat het. Mnr. Liebenberg was van 1984 tot 2002 deel van HFM, waar hy ’n waardevolle bydrae tot die skoolgemeenskap gelewer het. Hy was onder meer betrokke by die afrigting van netbal, atletiek en krieket en het deur die jare ’n rol in talle leerders se skoolloopbane gespeel. Vir baie Thabazimbi-inwoners was hy egter ook eenvoudig ’n bekende deel van die dorp – ’n gesig wat gereeld by plaaslike koffiewinkels gesien is, waar hy graag ’n koppie koffie geniet het. HFM het met waardering teruggedink aan sy jare by die skool en die spore wat hy in soveel mense se lewens gelaat het. Die skool het sy innige meegevoel aan mnr. Liebenberg se familie, vriende en almal wat hom geken en liefgehad het, betuig. Rus sag, mnr. Liebenberg.

Blowout sends bakkie into power pole

Platinum Bushvelder newspaper | Thabazimbi – Three people escaped with only minor injuries after a Toyota bakkie left the road and struck a power pole on the Setaria/ Koedoeskop dirt road on Sunday afternoon, 16 August 2026. Thaba Fire and Rescue was called to the scene at approximately 15:50. According to information received, one of the bakkie’s tyres reportedly burst, causing the driver to lose control. The vehicle broke through a fence before crashing into a power pole alongside the road. Three occupants were found inside the bakkie and, fortunately, sustained only minor injuries. Thaba Fire and Rescue, the Northam Platinum Fire Team and a state ambulance attended the scene.

– The success of this year's Thabazimbi Vuurfees has translated into valuable new equipment for Thaba Fire and Rescue, helping the emergency team reach people faster when every minute counts.

Thanks to the generous support of the Thabazimbi community, funds raised during the Vuurfees enabled the team to purchase a four-wheel motorcycle. The vehicle will allow responders to reach critical areas quickly, particularly in difficult or inaccessible terrain where conventional emergency vehicles cannot travel. The team was also able to purchase a gazebo that will serve as an Incident Command Post (ICP) during larger incidents and emergencies, providing a central point from which response efforts can be coordinated.

Pierre Loots of Thaba Fire and Rescue said the organisation is extremely grateful for the continued support it receives from residents, businesses and organisations. “We are incredibly thankful for the way our community supports every project we undertake,” Loots said. “Their support allows us to keep growing and improving – not only by investing in better equipment, but also by strengthening our knowledge and skills.”

He added that team members regularly undergo courses and training to ensure they are prepared to provide the necessary assistance in a wide range of emergencies.

After more than six decades on South African breakfast tables, ProNutro underwent a major reformulation in 2026. The new recipe brought changes to its familiar taste and texture – and not everyone is convinced! Would you like the old ProNutro back?

“Yes, definitely. The old ProNutro tasted so much better than the new version. I would much rather have the old one back.”

Molebogeng Thupi, Regorogile

“Ja, ek wil baie graag die ou ProNutro terug! Soveel produkte word deesdae verander vir langer raklewe en goedkoper produksie. Ek is nie oortuig dat 'n langer raklewe vir produkte noodwendig 'n langer, gesonder lewe vir ons beteken nie.”

Did you know?

BLACK SMOKE CAN BE A WARNING SIGN... Thick, black smoke rising from a fire often indicates that rubber, tyres, plastics or other petroleum-based materials are burning. Tyres are well known for producing dense, dark smoke when they burn, as the rubber releases large amounts of soot during combustion. Tyre fires can also release harmful pollutants, including carbon monoxide and various hydrocarbons. They burn at extremely high temperatures, can be difficult to extinguish and may continue smouldering or even reignite after the visible flames have disappeared.
